

The Book Project

The Transitioned Veteran: Success beyond Service

This book is a compilation of stories by veterans sharing their journey while transitioning from the military to a corporate job. These are real stories from real Veterans that share their painful trials and tribulations, offering motivational insight on what worked right and what did not.

While all were ultimately successful, some fought hard, were completely overwhelmed, confused, or felt disgruntled that they were not quickly finding a job. What were they doing wrong? How did they succeed? What worked right?

Our book will be an unedited gathering of true stories written by Veterans like those in our Military Transition books who want to share their job transition experience from the military with you. The stories will be their own, sharing their own fears, successes, failures, resourcefulness, perseverance and just-do-it attitude that will inspire and motivate all who read them.

Each Veteran will be sharing their story through addressing 13 questions that we've compiled. These questions have been composed to help provide insight to the most frequent questions we've received over the years in researching and writing our books. We are gathering as many of these stories as possible and present them here in this book. It will be published in both eBook and print formats.

We are looking for veterans that have transitioned from the Service and into successful ventures such as contracting, civil service, running your own business, or a great corporate job! Veterans who want to hear YOUR story. They want to hear about the unknown - they want to go beyond TAP and get a handle on just how good or bad the marketplace is. Share your story and be an influencer.

If you have served and successfully transitioned to a job beyond the military, we would love to share your story!
